Terms and Conditions

The Discovery Library, Derriford Hospital, is the copyright holder of all images produced, and must be clearly credited as the copyright holder in any use of the images.

Non-commercial use only

Users are free to copy and distribute the images for non-commercial use only. The images are not for use for any commercial purposes or gain. If the images are used in a resource which is then sold, or from which you will make financial gain, this counts as commercial use and is not permitted under the terms of the licence. Similarly, if the images are used to provide a service for which you then charge, this also counts as commercial gain and is not permitted under the terms of the licence.

Derivative works

Users may make derivative copies of the images by editing or modifying them, but must follow the conditions for attribution set out below.

Attribution

The Discovery Library, Derriford Hospital must be clearly credited as copyright holder in any use of these images. If any derivative works are produced from an image, the Discovery Library, Derriford Hospital must be clearly credited as the copyright holder of the original image. In any reuse or distribution of the work, the licence conditions and copyright ownership must be made clear.
